NEW FIGHTING FLARES IN RIOT-TORN LEBANON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Intense fighting has flared again in Tripoli, the Lebanese Mediterranean seaport where this little Middle East country's crisis began 19 days ago.

Eyewitness reports said two members of the forces opposing pro-Western President Camille Chamoun were killed Tuesday, and 12 wounded, when they tried to break out of the old Moslem quarter where they have been blockaded.

Money for Houses

MR. HOWARD GREEN, FED-eral minister of public works, is a politician renowned for his honesty. Being honest, he does not hesitate to admit his mistakes.

Last year Mr. Green, and other Conservative leaders, were denouncing the Liberal Government for keepinterest rates too high. would have thought from their speeches that interest rates could never be too low, that the existing cost of money was almost entirely responsible for the business recession.

A few days ago Mr. Green rose in Parliament to say, with his usual candor, that interest rates on home mortgages could not be further reduced. Why? Because, of course, people with money to lend will not lend it for housing purposes if they cannot thus earn a reasonable return. They will put the money in some other investment and housing will go short.

Mr. Green is right, of course. In this field of government, as in others, public problems do not look the same from the responsible treasury benches as they looked from the carefree benches of opposition.

The problem of interest rates may be even more difficult than Mr. Green yet realizes.

His Government has been trying reduce interest rates with one hand while pressing them upward with the other. Nothing is more calculated to increase interest rates than the Government's present gigantic program of borrowing.

In seeking capital from the public the Government is bidding for money against all private borrowers. It is only the largest bidder in the continual auction which fixes the price of money as it fixes the price of all commodities.

What interest rates will emerge from this play of competitive forces no one can yet foresee. But one basic fact should now be evident to every-one, though it was not evident to the Conservative Party last year. It is that the nation requires large savings to finance its growth, since growth cannot be financed otherwise. except by foreign borrowings.

Few people—as individuals or as the collection of individuals called corporations—will save money unless they are paid a reasonable return on it. And the whole national habit of saving in government bonds, bank accounts, life insurance policies and other fixed investments will be undermined if the savers see their money constantly whittled away by an inflationary rise in prices.

In saying that there is a limit to the practical reduction in mortgage rates Mr. Green identifies a much larger problem affecting all aspects of the money and the economic system. It is gratifying to see that he and, presumably the Government as a whole, have begun to grasp this problem which was so gravely understood and distorted in the last two election campaigns.

'But We Were Born Free'

THE BIG NAMES OF THE newspaper world have added their tributes to the memory of the late Elmer Davis.

They point to the unique position held by a great champion of freedom. They add nothing to the stature of Elmer Davis alive. That stature towered high in the impregnable granite of his integrity and courage. The tributes serve only to render graceful recognition of the character he had shown.

At any time, the late Elmer Davis would have been an outstanding personality in his field. Force of circumstance made him greater.

Elmer Davis emerged in full strength to tell his countrymen of the disasters of war. He spoke frankly. His words carried with them his conviction that the people of the United States would stand up under adversity, would find renewed unity to press their fight for freedom. They accepted that conviction.

Elmer Davis gave quiet voice to the defence of human decency against the fear-inspiring viciousness of McCarthyism. "But we were born free," he wrote, and men who had shrunk from the McCarthy smear found heart again.

He fought McCarthyism because he recognized it as an enemy of freedom. And he prevailed.

Elmer Davis was a vivid symbol of that devotion to freedom found by the people of the United States in their inspired moments. He will be remembered for his courage and an abiding faith in his countrymen which historic events have justified.

The Great French Puzzle

(The following dispatch was sent from France last weekend and presents the background of the present rapidly chang-ing situation.)

NO more curious situation could be imagined than the present situation in this deeply troubled country. Virtually the entire army, a large part of the permanent civil service and everincreasing numbers of influential people in all the other key sectors of French life now believe that Gen. de Gaulle's return to power is "the only way Yet only a very small minority feels the slightest enthusiasm for the expericate. No one doubts General's greatness. But no one has

Alsop any clear idea of what he will do with the power so many people wish to give

Most of those who most strongly believe that France now needs de Gaulle have just resigned themselves to this great change. They regard it as risky but unavoidable.

This sudden surrender to the huge reote, mysterious, even mystical figure that is Gen. de Gaulle demands an ex-The explanation is growing rejection of the French Na tional Assembly. But why is the elected parliament so despairingly rejected?

This reporter's private key to the great puzzle of the French parliament was acquired in the darkest days of the last war, in 1940. A member of the personal staff of France's war-premier Paul Reynaud, had just made his way to the United States after notable adventures.

In those days, the question everyone was asking was why Reynaud had not led a French government in exile to those same North African provinces where France's agony now centres. It was known Reynaud had wanted to do so. His intelligence and courage were questioned by none. Why then had Reynaud handed over the government to the advocates of surrender, Petain and

On being asked this question, Reynaud's former staff-assistant offered the following explanation: Reynaud had wished to lead a government into exile, that would represent "a parliamentary majority" which had dissolved in the acid of disaster. He therefore handed over to the advocates of surrender in the belief that Adolph Hitler's surrender terms would prove 'unacceptable."

The idea was that Hitler's unacceptable terms would cause a parliamentary majority to rally to Reynaud, after which the departure for North Africa could be organized in proper style.

If this account is indeed correct, Paul Reynaud in fact regarded the opening of surrender talks with Hitler as a parliamentary manoeuvre. You could have no more astonishing illustration of the peuliar astigmatism that is caused by the French parliamentary career.

In the last year and a half, this reporter has observed the same phenon non at first hand and on many occasions. For example, he has heard two successive prime ministers discussing the Algerian problem at length and in detail.

Both of these very able men hardly once touched on the cruel realities of the of the quite different realities of the sitof the quite different realities of the sit-uation in the National Assembly—of what measures the Deputies would ap-prove and what they would not approve, of how the different groups stood, and

Reflected Problem

As in the case of Reynaud, a kind substitution of realities had occurred. They did not see the problem itself. They saw the problem as it was reflected in the distorting mirror of the pas-sion-charged, endlessly manoeuvering Chamber. Precisely because of its intrieacies and uncertainties, in short, French parliament lives a true life-of-its-own, which actually supplants the real life outside

It is this strange state of affairs which makes the outer world think France is weak, whereas France is in fact a nation in full renaissance, bursting with regained vigor.

It is this strange state of affairs which has ended by so sharply alienating those who live the real life of France from those who live the parliamentary life. And it is this state of affairs which Pierre Pflimlin is belatedly, obstinately, desperately seeking to remedy papers. I suppose most Tobin contain newspaper clippings of one kind or another, many of them of value only to the one who has tenderly preserved them down through the years. Two them down through the years. Two items of Mr. Dineen's might claim a certain historical value as well: they are the last small sheet issued by The Straits Times four hours before the Japanese arrived in Singapore, and the first one issued a day or two after the British forces arrived to take the Jap surrender

Emergency Issue

The first "newspaper" is a 9-by 13-inch sheet printed on only one side, dated Singapore, Saturday, February 14, 1942. It was handed out in the streets free of charge, told of fighting in the city's outskirts, warned the civilian population to dispress into to tell how the RAF was still pounding Brest, Le Havre and Mannhelm.

The second paper—a single sheet not much bigger than the other—is dated Friday, September 7, 1945, describes how the Union Jack has been run up all over the city, and displays the headline: "Singapore is British Again!"

In between those two editions the Straits Times was out of business. But Mr. Dineen still got his news—and thereby hangs the tale of the beard.

Like many other Singapore residents

Mr. Dineen joined the city's volunteer defence force long before the Pacific war broke out. It was as a Technical Sergeant that he was captured with the fall of the city and sent to a prisoner of war camp on a small island a couple of miles of

That was the day he started to grow his beard. He swore he would not shave it off until he was free again.

Heavy Mortality

"There were about 600 of us on the island to start with," he recalls. "Most of them were Australian soldiers. By the end of the war there were only 350.

Starvation, heavy labor on the docks unloading ammunition and airplane fuel, tortures and executions for trivial offences—these all took their toll...

As a civilian, Mr. Dineen had been an employee of General Electric. As a serviceman he had been in signals. Con-sequently, as time went by and the prisoners were completely cut off from radio as a possiple answer.

Over a period of months the men brought him scraps of metal, bits of wire, a small part filched from a tele phone, a tube scrounged from some private house the prisoners were made to demolish. Anything that 'looked as though it might help a bit" was added the collection, and one glorious day Dineen's genius turned it all into a radio that worked.

The set was concealed in the bottom inch of his mess tin, with a saucer hold-ing a little rice placed on top. ing a little rice placed on top.
"It was hard to keep rice in the flage kept me from eating it afl."

The news came into the camp regularly, and the prisoners knew more of what was going on than their Japanese.

One night there was an unbelievable broadcast. Something the announcer called an atomic bomb had been dropped on Hiroshima. The Japs were talking peace and the war was practically over.

Mr. Dineen told the senior British officer- and the officer didn't believe it. "Many of the men had gone a little out of their heads," Mr. Dineen remem-bers. "The officer thought I was one of them, with my talk of Japanese sur-render. He told me to say nothing about render. He told me to say nothing about it to the men for fear of letting the guards know we had a radio."

End in Sight

But each night the end-of-the-war news eveloped until there could be no doubts. The British commander went to the Japanese, told them the war was over, and demanded that his men be allowed to cease their labors.

The Jap commander admitted the truth and sent out orders to the men to "go home," to their barracks.

That was the first the prisoners had known of developments. When they learned that the news had been "sat on" for several days they were ready to scalp Dineen. They compromised by shaving off his beard—now a footlong, spade-shaped marvel—with a dull knife.

For years the prisoners had eaten nothing but rice, eked out with snails and such other edibles as they could get their hands on. Now the Japanese sud-denly turned generous. They sent lorries into the camp, let down the tail-gates, and loosed 20 pigs among the barrack

Nearly 400 men set out after the porkers with grim determination and in almost no time the cooking pots were

Pils. Hang On To Snap Deadlock For Second Slot

Whitey Severson's Victoria Shamrocks, who did such a fine job of tying up the New Westminster Salmonbellies Monday, get another chance to shackle the Inter-City Lacrosse League leaders Thurrday.

And if the Irish can hobble the Salmonbellies for a second straight time, the run for top place will become tighter than a et bowline. Vancouver Pilseners climbed to within one point of New Westminster Tuesday night with a 13-12 decision over last-place Nanaimo Timbermen before 1,000 Vancouver fans.

The win snapped a two-way tie for second place between Pilseners and Victoria, although Nanaimo marshalled a fourth period assault that all but wiped

LAST-DITCH TRY

Vancouver led 6-1 at the quarter and 11-5 at the half, only to have the Timbermen slice the lead to 12-8 in the third quarter. Pilseners were outscored 4-1 in the final quarter.

Rookie Pete Black contributed three goals for Vancouver while Wayne Peckold, John Cervi and Chuck Boucher each had two. Jim Swanson, Alf Brenner, Don Cummins and Roy Burton each got singles.

Ex-Shamrock Don Sherry was a powerhouse for Nanaimo with five goals and an assist. Skip McKay and Don Ashbee each notched two goals while Jim Kinna and Arnie Duggan each scored once.

Duggan set up five other goals with needle-sharp passing and generally hampered the Vancouver play.

Without digressing further, we now bring up the subject of five exhibition matches between Al Balding and Stan Leonard, Canada's two top professionals who will stop off at Vancouver, Kamloops, Kelowna, Penticton and Victoria's Gorge Vale Club.

Regardless of what else is to be said below, their June 13 visit will be a treat for all golf enthusiasts who enjoy watching the best. To explain who Balding and Leonard are, and what they have done, would insult the intelligence of Victoria's

Each match is worth $500 to the winner and $400 to the loser. In addition, the pro with the best medal score after the five matches receives a $500 bonus. All in all, there's $5,000 waiting for the two pros.

There are expenses, of course, and the tour committee has budgeted for $1,600. In other words, the actual cost of staging the entire tour is about $6,600.

The tour, it has been reported, is being "sponsored" by a brewery and proceeds obtained from the sale of admission tickets are to go to aid Gyro Club charities.

For Gyros' Sake, Hope He's Right

A golf writer with the Vancouver morning newspaper, the other day came right out and said the sponsor "will put up $5,000 for the players, together with all travel expenses." Then the same golf writer, who must be a nice fellow because he gives out free advertising so liberally, quoted the tournament manager as saying "the money from admission charges will go to the Gyros for their various charities."

Personally, we hope the mainland writer is right. If he has the correct information, then the Gyros stand a good chance of making a few dollars for their very worthwhile projects.

Unfortunately, information supplied us does not paint a picture as pretty as the one in the Vancouver paper.

* * For one thing, we are told, the boys who brew the suds ARE NOT putting up the $5,000 prize pot. The brewers merely have agreed to underwrite any losses incurred by the tour. It's

The fact that the suds outfit is helping guarantee the appearance of these two great golfers is commendable. The most annoying-chapter of the entire story is the fact that printing of tickets is to be included on the $1,600 expenses budget.

Granted, the cost of printing tickets is only a drop in the bucket, but it just so happens that they are out and out advertising slips favoring the brewery. The suds slingers are sitting pretty. If the four fails to attract fans (which we doubt), they stand to lose some money. Even a great pessimist would have to agree that the losses ot be more than $3,500. The advertising the brewery is receiving in centres other than Victoria will make that sum

Advertising Cheap When It's Free

However, if the tour should reach a break-even point, or perhaps make a few dollars for the Gyro Club, the brewery receives a few thousand dollars worth of advertising for nothing. Even those tickets, which resemble beacon lights, will be paid for. This is unfair to the Gyro clubs as well as to the golf enthusiasts who believe that their admission fee may wind up supporting a worthwhile charity.

* * *
The commercial aspect of the tour is such that this city's two Gyro clubs—Victoria and Camosun—have decided to step out of the golf-promoting field. Arrangements and responsibilities will be looked after by the Vancouver Gyros.

* "We simply felt that all the work and energy that would be needed to help make this a success simply isn't worth our effort. All we would be doing is working for the brewery," asid one member of the Camosun Gyros.

"When any club or organization stages an event for charity." he added, "profits usually run at least 80 per cent. Even if the tour made $10,000, all we could get is about $3,400,

But don't let these financial problems prevent you from enjoying and watching the two finest Canadian pros at work.

16 Hours Return

The return trip takes about 16 hours, including a refuel-ling stop at Frobisher Bay, on Baffin Island off the northern coast of Labrador. As a result, the lucky trav-eller finds himself saying in Europe, "Now, last night in Vancouver . . ," or even, on the other side of the world, "Now, this morning when I was in Amsterdam . . ."

It's great fun, but a little disconcerting. Zipping from B.C. to Europe almost between meals prompts one to make a few pinches to see if he's still awake.

I know. Through the courtesy of Canadian Pacific Air Lines, I left Vancouver at noon last May 14 on a flight to Amsterdam, arranged as a forerunner of the regular service that will start June 1.

There were 80 travel agents, television crews and newspapermen on the trip, which included eight days in Europe before returning on May 24.

Night's Sleep Gone

We stopped briefly at Shannon Airport in Ireland be-cause the jet stream let us down and we couldn't make the trip non-stop, but still arrived at Amsterdam at about noon local time. That was fine, except that no one had slept, and there was little use turning in at noon, with mind in a whirl trying to grasp the wonder of it all.

For instance, as operated by Canadian Pacific Air Lines all the delights of Amsterdam to enjoy. So — away went the night's sleep.

On the return trip, we left Amsterdam before midnight, slept comfortably until about 6 a.m., Amsterdam time, and enjoyed a hearty breakfast. Our Frobisher landing was made shortly after, then at noon, Amsterdam time, we had a huge and leisurely

At 3.25 p.m., Amsterdam time, we landed at Vancouver. But there was a hitch. With the day half gone, and two big meals eaten, it was only 7:25 a.m., Vancouver time, and we were just start-

Whither the Sun?

The old sun also fails to follow recognized procedures. On our trip east we spent the night in the northern latitudes and never did see a totally dark sky. In fact, we ran away from the setting sun so fast that before we knew it it was rising again. And on the westward trip, the 360-380 miles per hour we averaged actually kept the sun from rising until we dropped into the lower latitudes in western Canada.

These phenomena mean nothing to a hardened tra-veler, but to a neophyte they are most confusing

Far Above Weather

Another startling aspect of this particular flight, which will be made four times weekly after June 1, is the num-ber of things CPA thinks of for passengers' comfort and enjoyment. The food is scrumptious, fresh and hot, beautifully served with all the proper accompaniments.

There is no danger of it landing in your lap. The Britannia's turboprop engines hoist it to over 20,000 feet in jig time, far above the weather. From then on it climbs gradually through the chill, still, clear and stable upper air to 31,000 feet.

MONTE ROBERTS

One of the more commendable efforts to mark the 100th birthday of this, the fairest province of them all, was the creation of the Centennial Plaid.

This is a very handsome plaid Indeed, one which does great credit to those who instigated it as well as to those who brought it into reality. As you may know, this Centennial Plaid contains five colors—blue, green, gold, white and red.

They not only make an attractive, indeed striking, combination, they were each intended to be symbolic of some part of this, the fairest province of them all.

The green, for instance, was to stand for our forest giants, the white for our snow-capped peaks. However, due to our current state of separation from the mainland, it has been found necessary to revise the

In the fertile mind of Earl Ward, to whom we must pay tribute for his part in creating the Centennial Plaid, nes this re-assessment:

Blue is for the empty stretch of ocean upon which ply no ships of the CPR. Green is for the greenbacks of years agone, now most noticeable for their absence. Gold is for the sun now setting on our Island tourist

White is for the pallid faces of worried businessmen. And red is for the ink they're using in their ledgers.

Ah, well, cheer up, chaps.
At least we have a few hardy tourists with us this week. They are so anxious to visit Victoria, they supply their

Speech Patterns Formed Through Women's Chatter

LONDON, Ont. (CP)-Femi-nine chatter has more far-reach ing effects than most people re-alize, says Peter Dearing, artistic director of the London Little Theatre.

He told a women's meeting here: "Speech patterns are mostly founded on listening to women talk. A child learn stincts of speech."

Women should take as much care with the sound of their voices as with their appearance,

"The human voice can sound exquisite when properly trained but few persons have any knowledge of its value."

Mr. Dearing asserted that few vomen are good public speakers because their voices are either too weak or too penetrating. He suggested that a tape recorder might be used to detect and to correct faults in

I hope you won't entertain or give un-willingly or begrudgingly. If you do, the giving and the pleasure of giving would be nil.

Frank Crown Roast Gives Meal Interest

It's fun once in a while to dress up the main meal of the day. To do this an elegant menu isn't always necessary. Take franks and sauerkraut for example. With a little ingenuity on your part, the versatile meat can be transformed into a frank crown roast, the centre filled with the tart 'kraut, and the masterpiece served with parsev potatoes. Even though franks are made with youngsters in mind, grownups relish them too. The home-maker appreciates the fact that in addition to tasting so good, these all-meat franks are fully ooked when she buys, them. ENTERTAINMENT PLUS-Perhaps it was because I didn't watch TV so much this weekend past that I enjoyed it more.

At any rate, it seemed that Wide Wide World's penultimate show of the season, Sunday, was one of the best WWW has staged since it first started its continent-hopping a couple of years ago, and that Chevy Show's no host party, the Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen efforts all boasted an uncommon blend of excitement.

As WWW used its cameras to bring in comics of the past and those of the present in "The Sound of Laughit seemed that the program had at last disco 14"..... $2.65 eq. Benchley just as it was interesting to pick up the Smith and Dale baggy-panted, sad-faced Charles Chaplin trying to cope with life. For a few riotous moments Dave Garroway brought us up to date with modern comedy in the form of Mort Sahl whose humor is aimed with deadly precision at our way of life, which, to my mind, needs pricking badly as often as possible. There was also an enlighten ing visit with Al Capp, creator of Li'l Abner, Daisy Mae and company.

For my money, however, WWW was guilty of wasting time on an interview with Bob Hope, which didn't quite jell, and with Steve Allen and Peter Ustinov who of its brilliant TV adaptation of Robert Penn Warren's were preparing for that night's show. Instead I wish Pulitzer prize-winning novel, "All the King's Men." the time had been used showing film clips from old W. C. Field shows, or those of Jackie Googan, some Keystone comedies with their outrageous cops, of Ben Turpin, Larry Semon, Harold Lloyd, Fatty Arbuckle, Buster Keaton, Charley-Chase, Laurel and Hardy and others who were part and parcel of the history of yesterday.

However, I suppose one can't have everything. Next Two Blocks Down Billside week WWW will cover the movie "westerns," from the 2614 BRIDGE STREET 3-7106 days of William S. Hart, Tom. Mix and Hoot Gibson up to the Gary Coopers and John Waynes of the present. This, the final show of the season, promises much and we'll all hope that it lives up to its promise.

> THE SAME NIGHT the Chevy Stow, sans Dinah Shore, staged a no-host party featuring Shirley Mac-Laine, Walter Pidgeon, Andy Williams, Mickey Shaughnessy and Gogi Grant that was a gasser, one of the best

Miss MacLaine, a bombshell who must have been sired by nuclear fision, was excellent in a bit about fast-changes before live cameras. Miss Grant did a smasheroo of a job as the singer who warbled "The Wayward Wind" while the sound effects man lost control. surprising, veteran Pidgeon not only displayed an adequate singing voice but proved that he blends well with

In the Sullivan show it was the beautiful dancing of Jeanmaire. And on the Steve Allen program it was the young Texas pianist Van Cliburn who thrilled one with his ease and virtuosity as much as he did with his gentlemanly manners and appearance of humility.

Ordinarily, high finance is one business that Fedoruk usually prefers to pass on to another member of the staff. Even on the home front, great monetary dealings such as lying the rent and purchasing milk are left up to the better

Today, however, we will tackle the problem of financing a golf tour. If we survive this one, another "expert" will be ready to look after Canada's economic future (if asked).

Without digressing further, we now bring up the subject of five exhibition matches between Al Balding and Stan Leonard, Canada's two top professionals who will stop off at Vancouver, Kamloops, Kelowna, Penticton and Victoria's Gorge Vale Club.

* * * Regardless of what else is to be said below, their June 13 visit will be a treat for all golf enthusiasts who enjoy watch-ing the best. To explain who Balding and Leonard are, and what they have done, would insult the intelligence of Victoria's sporting fraternity.

Each match is worth $500 to the winner and $400 to the loser. In addition, the pro with the best medal score after the five matches receives a $500 bonus. All in all, there's $5,000 waiting for the two pros.

There are expenses, of course, and the tour committee has budgeted for $1,600. In other words, the actual cost of staging the entire tour is about $6,600.

The tour, it has been reported, is being "sponsored" by a brewery and proceeds obtained from the sale of admission tickets are to go to aid Gyro Club charities,

For Gyros' Sake, Hope He's Right

A golf writer with the Vancouver morning newspaper, the other day came right out and said the sponsor "will put up $5,000 for the players, together with all travel ex-penses." Then the same golf writer, who must be a nice felow because he gives out free advertising so liberally, quoted the tournament manager as saying "the money from admission charges will go to the Gyros for their various charities."

Personally, we hope the mainland writer is right. If he has the correct information, then the Gyros stand a good chance of making a few dollars for their very worthwhile projects. Unfortunately, information supplied us does not paint a picture as pretty as the one in the Vancouver paper.

For one thing, we are told, the boys who brew the suds ARE NOT putting up the $5,000 prize pot. The brewers merely have agreed to underwrite any losses incurred by the tour. It's a horse of a different color.

The fact that the suds outfit is helping guarantee the appearance of these two great golfers is commendable. annoying chapter of the entire story is the fact that printing of tickets is to be included on the $1,600 expenses budget.

Granted, the cost of printing tickets is only a drop in the bucket, but it just so happens that they are out and out adver-tising slips favoring the brewery.

The suds slingers are sitting pretty. If the tour fails to attract fans (which we doubt), they stand to lose some money. Even a great pessimist would have to agree that the losses would not be more than $8,500. The advertising the brewery is receiving in centres other than Victoria will make that sum

Advertising Cheap When It's Free

However, if the tour should reach a break even point, or perhaps make a few dollars for the Gyro Club, the brewery receives a few thousand dollars worth of advertising for nothing. Even those tickets, which resemble beacon lights, will

This is unfair to the Gyro clubs as well as to the golf enthusiasts who believe that their admission fee may wind up supporting a worthwhile charity.

The commercial aspect of the tour is such that this city's two Gyro clubs—Victoria and Camosun—have decided to step out of the golf-promoting field. Arrangements and responsibili-ties will be looked after by the Vancouver Gyros.

"We simply felt that all the work and energy that would needed to help make this a success simply isn't worth our fort. All we would be doing is working for the brewery," said one member of the Camosun Gyros. When any club or organization stages an event for charity," he added, "profits usually run at least 80 per cent. Even if the tour made $10,000, all we could get is about $3,400, which is 34 per cent.'

MONTE ROBERTS

One of the more commendable efforts to mark the 100th hirthday of this, the fairest province of them all, was the creation of the Centenhial Plaid.

This is a very handsome plaid indeed, one which does great credit to those who instigated it as well as to those who brought it into reality.

As you may know, this Centennial Plaid contains five colors—blue, green, gold, white and red.

They not only make an attractive, indeed striking, com-bination, they were each intended to be symbolic of some part of this, the fairest province of them all.

The green, for instance, was to stand for our forest giants, the white for our snow-capped peaks.

However, due to our current state of separation from the mainland, it has been found necessary to revise the

Washington Bandits Hunted in B.C.

SILVANA, Wash. (AP) - The search turned north-SILVANA, Wash. (AP) — The search turned north-ward to B.C. today for two dapper bandits who robbed this small western Washington town's only bank of $3,100 after threatening to "blow the heads off" two employees. Two men answering their description were reported seen Tuesday afternoon, several hours after the holdup, in Deming where they inquired directions toward the Cana-dian border.

Rain Urgently Needed on Prairies

OTTAWA (CP) — Rain is urgently needed over wide areas of the Prairies, the bureau of statistics said today in a report on Canadian crop conditions.

"Very little rain was received during the past week in the Prairie provinces and warm windy weather has con-tinued to deplete topsoil moisture," it said.

Patterson to Defend Title in July?

NEW YORK (AP) - There were strong indications today that world heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson will defend his title this July.

Kutsher's Country Club, a resort in the Catskill Mountains at Monticello, N.Y., said Patterson will open a 30-day training program at the resort starting June 2.

Giants' Gomez Refuses to Pay Fine

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Ruben Gomez of San Francisco Giants said today he would not pay the $100 fine levied against him by National League President Giles for the rhubarb in Pittsburgh last Sunday.

Gomez, teammate Orlando Cepeda and Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh were fined $100 each by Giles for an argument and fist throwing that almost mushroomed into a free-for-all between the Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Field Cut to 26 for Epsom Derby

LONDON (UPI) — Out of an original entry of 471, top classic of the horse racing season, the Epsom Derby, only 26 thoroughbreds will face the starting gate for the final acceptances disclosed today.

Experts anticipate that only 20 will 26 in the line-up June 4, which would be the smallest for 10 years.

HERE'S WHY Ford makes it foolish to pay more—8 of the more important quality features that are standard in every Ford . . . at no extra cost to you!

Trend-setting styling. Ford's distinctive Honeycombed Grille and graceful styling have the touch of tomorrow . . . and say 'fine car' in every detail.

Luxurious seating comfort. Thick, genuine foam rubber cushions the front seat in every Ford model. You ride in arm-chair comfort . . . arrive refreshed.

Smoother, built-to-last power For lasting smoothness, every Ford power plant is electroni-cally balanced while running under its own power. Other quality engine features: air cleaner that traps up to 90% of dust and dirt that others miss; full-flow oil filter that's mounted right on the engine block for complete filtration,

Fine-car ride. Ford's new swept-back, ball-joint front suspension floats you over the ughest roads. Even-Keel rear ension adjusts automati cally to changing load and road conditions. Quiet that's built in. Ford helps you relax 3 ways. It has more roof and body insulation than other cars in its field. Deep-block engine design cuts vibration. And every part of Ford's husky chassis is welded, braced and bonded to form one incredibly strong and silent unit.

'Inner Ford' strength. Five heavy steel cross-members give the chassis extra beef. And you ride inside the chassis with wall-to-wall protection.

Swift, sure braking. Ford's rugged Giant-Grip brakes mean easy, smooth stopping. Extra durability, too—they're double-sealed against dirt and water.

Canadians Develop New Rocket Fuel

TORONTO (CP) - A new solid rocket fuel that could help counteract an attack by intercontinental ballistics missiles has been developed by Canada, a rocket development engineer said today.

The new fuel could also be Lionel A. Dickinson told reporters at the Chemical Institute of Canada's annual meeting. He said the fuel has been co-operation between Canadian scientists and those in the United States, Britain and other parts of the Commonwealth.

He indicated the fuel is superior to the liquid propellant used in missiles by the United States. The fuel was designed primarily for adverse conditions in Canada if rocket bases are set up in the north.

The fuel is safer to handle than liquid and although further research is being car-ried out, Mr. Dickinson suggested that it could be put into production immediately, if re-

British Papers Favor De Gaulle Over Strife

LONDON (Reuters) - Britain's Conservative and Liberal newspapers agree that the reof Gen, de Gaulle turn to power of Gen. de Gaulle is preferable to a civil war in Some Conservative papers offer warm praise for the general. The Liberal and independ ent papers regard him as the lesser of two evils.

In contrast, the Labor party's Daily Herald denounces de Gaulle for nursing dictatorial ambitions similar to those of Francisco Franco before his climb to power in Spain. "Democracy appears to be near its end in France," the newspaper says in a front-page editorial. "A proud bastion of editorial. liberty falls . . . The security and unity of the entire free world are weakened." The strongest support for de Gaulle comes from The Daily Telegraph. It says: "If the general did not exist, France would have to invent him.

"The past two weeks hav made it unmistakably clear that the assembly is no longer able to produce and maintain a gov ernment strong enough to govern the country. "He is a man of honor and Christian virtue devoid of personal lust for power and dedicated to his country's highest ideals. The Daily Mail says a de Gaulle regime would prove "a stronger ally" for the West than any other French government in recent years. Sir George Arthur French
